I. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is designed as a co-requisite to Fieldwork II. The focus will be on the articulation of prevention and intervention strategies utilized in the field and on the issues of youth at risk. The principles that will be learned will apply to both the behaviour of others and to one's own behavioural responses as a helping professional. Reference will be made to material drawn from other CYW courses.

The fieldwork and seminar format enables students to gain self-confidence in their abilities, become aware of their motivations and share their problems, anxieties and feelings. This class also assists the students with understanding the broader social context involved in an individual child's life (i.e. family, peers, community). The holistic approach is emphasized as students learn to become competent workers in this profession.

- iii) utilize basic human relations skills in sharing observations and in giving feedback to fellow classmates/colleagues

The total grade will be reduced overall to reflect any discrepancies. Failure to meet a minimally acceptable level of attendance can result in a repeat of this course as well as the corequisite of field work II. The purpose of attendance is to ensure that presentations are done before a receptive, contributing audience as well as to allow students to demonstrate their professional commitment. Allowance is made for exceptional illnesses and emergencies - the instructor reserves the right to ask for verification of absence in any case.
3. Professional-level participation in presentations and discussions.
4. Students will be expected to lead a discussion of an assigned topic, according to criteria attached. This will be an individual assignment, approximately 20 to 30 minutes in length.

Field Placement review (written)	10%
Attendance 20%

The instructor has the prerogative of assigning a repeat presentation or rewrite if either is not performed at a suitable level. This will be explained in class, in order that everyone is aware of the expectations. If this cannot be done for any reason, the student's grade will reflect this. There will be a grading penalty for any late assignments, and in some circumstances the classroom schedule may not provide any opportunity to "catch up" a missed assignment, resulting in a zero grade for that particular portion of the course.

Evaluation of the final grade will be based not merely on quantity of work but on quality of work as well, for example, an "A" can be earned only if "A" reports are written. Participation in discussions is also a requirement. A+ can be earned with full participation in each class with reports typed, free of errors and on time. Examples of participation include shared insights, support and respectful comment.

The following semester grades will be assigned to students in postsecondary courses:

Grade	Definition	Grade Point Equivalent
A+	90 - 100%	4.00

2. Develop three or four discussion questions that will bring out additional aspects of the issue (these will be things like safety, confidentiality, conflicts of interest, values, professionalism etc.). The questions should encourage a variety of ideas and help illuminate the pros and cons of various approaches
3. Be prepared to summarize the pros and cons, any general consensus that might emerge and then conclude by expressing your own thoughts on the subject. The purpose of this assignment is not to prove any particular viewpoint but rather to explore the topic from a variety of perspectives.

Discussion Format

1. Begin by presenting your introductory case study, role-play or video demo. You may ask class-mates to assist in this task if required.
2. Following your introductory activity, break the class into groups of 3 or 4 to work on the discussion questions you have prepared. Give them approximately 10 minutes to respond to these questions. Again, questions should be designed to generate a variety of ideas and issues for exploration.
3. Take up the groups' responses using overheads or the blackboard to record key points. Summarize the pros/cons and any consensus that may have emerged and then make your own concluding statements on the subject.
