I. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Part 1 of this course will provide an intensive study of the psychological, cognitive, physical and social development of the child from conception to early childhood. Psychological concepts, theories and research will be examined in relation to the child's development. The application of theory and research to the problems of childhood will be discussed.

Philosophically, this course emphasizes a holistic view of the undeniable worth of children.

II. LEARNING OUTCOMES AND ELEMENTS OF THE PERFORMANCE:

Upon successful completion of this course, the student will demonstrate the ability to:

- 1. Foster and utilize therapeutic environments which respect culture, promote well-being and facilitate positive change for children (adapted from CYW CSAC Learning Outcome #2)

Potential Elements of the Performance:

- assess in collaboration with relevant others, the developmental needs of infants, toddlers and preschool children
- understand factors that contribute to optimal growth and development of infants and young children
- define and critique the concept of development and the methods for studying development
- explain, compare, contrast and apply selected theories of child development
- describe and contrast the psychological, cognitive, physical and social developmental achievements of the prenatal period, infancy and early childhood
- integrate holistic applications of child development
- appropriately analyze child development literature from a variety of sources

- 2. Design and implement strategies which promote community education to enhance physical and psycho-social development in children (adapted from CSAC Learning Outcome #3)

Potential Elements of Performance

- identify and assess, in collaboration with other professionals, potential groups and communities at risk
- determine prevention and/or education objectives for specific groups and communities at risk
- facilitate the adaptation of resources which address the identified needs

3. Communicate effectively in verbal, non-verbal and written forms which enhance the quality of service (CYW CSAC Learning Outcome #8)

Potential Elements of the Performance:

- plan and organize communications according to the identified need
- select and use forms of communication required by the situation and the context
- communicate clearly, concisely, accurately and appropriately to the receiver, the setting, and the identified goals
- demonstrate and communicate awareness of both normative and individual patterns of development for the purposes of planning supports and building on strengths
- acquire and utilize vocabulary and professional terminology appropriate to the study of child development
- complete observation reports, supported by reference to child development literature
