3. Identify and promote their personal growth as an element in human relations work:

Elements of the performance:

On written tests and assignments, and in class demonstrations and discussions, the student will:

- a. Demonstrate a commitment to personal wellness
- b. Identify various elements of their personal motivations
- c. Identify various elements of their social interaction style and behaviour
- d. Identify the factors which affect personal disclosure
- e. Celebrate the differences between people
- f. Discuss the origins and effects of stress, the effect of stress on interpersonal relations, and demonstrate common stress management strategies

C. Topics

(Please see attached...)

D. Required Resources/Texts/Materials:

1. Adler, R. and Towne, N. (1996) Looking Out/Looking In (8th ed.) Toronto: Harcourt/Brace
2. Adler, R. and Towne, N. (1996) Activities Manual/Study Guide to accompany Looking Out/Looking In. Toronto: Harcourt/Brace

E. Evaluation Process/Grading System:

1. Quizzes: There will be five tests (5)* , scheduled evenly throughout the term. A one week notice will be provided for each quiz. A "quiz" will consist of multiple-choice and/or true-false questions. It is intended to provide feedback to the students regarding their understanding of text material.

* (each covering 2 chapters)

2. Completion and submission of exercises from the "Activities Manual" as assigned. Each student will complete four.

3. Completion and submission of a "Personal Reflections" journal with concluding discussion. This will be described more fully in class. In brief, it involves a reflection on the personal impact of each chapter of the text. It is completed upon completion of review of each chapter. It is to be submitted to the professor upon request throughout the term (the value is lost if it is not done after each chapter but is left entirely to the end - this assignment is designed to help the student to "track" their learning progress). At the end of the semester, the entire journal is submitted, together with a concluding discussion on the personal impact of the course overall, including a description of the growth which occurred personally, the Human Relations skills learned and how they are being used, and the relevance of this journal assignment.

4. Class Involvement: This course depends upon students being punctual, present and involved. Learning for everyone is enhanced when the students contribute, question, challenge, share, risk and support. At the end of the term each student will be asked to comment on the quality of their involvement, including but not limited to: attendance, punctuality, constructive contribution, demonstration of respect, demonstration of skills learned, preparedness for class.

Contributions can only be made by people who are present in class. Therefore, the grading for this section will be scaled to the attendance statistic for each student. If overall attendance falls below 60% of the class time, the grade for this section will be "0". Students who find it difficult to attend classes are invited to discuss this with the professor. Such discussion does not change the requirements of this section.

GRADING SUMMARY:

Quizzes: 5X 20	100%
Assignments: 4, each out of 5	35%
Personal Reflection Journal	50%
Involvement	15%

Total	200% divided by two = 100%

F. SPECIAL NOTES:

1. Regarding the definitions used in this outline, such as "test" and "quiz": the application is "course specific". The applications here should not be assumed to be relevant to any other course. Students are reminded to check course requirements with the professor of the particular course.

2. The nature of this experience:

This course is set up to be an educational experience. The premise of the course is that a person can only integrate and apply Human Relations concepts and skills when they have applied them personally. Anything less may be viewed as not genuine. To this end, a degree of personal disclosure will be encouraged and expected. Students will learn how to create an "atmosphere of safety and encouragement" which invites personal disclosure and improves Human Relations.

This course is not intended to be a therapy session. The professor will be vigilant in this regard. Excessive or dominating personal disclosure will be redirected, respectfully, in the direction of the course objectives. Students are reminded of the services of the College, including Counselling, to assist with personal matters. The professor can explain and assist further.

Confidentiality is observed by the professor, within legal and professional limits. This applies to all course discussions and assignments.

Students are required to observe confidentiality in the same fashion. If a student believes there to be a need to discuss another student's actions or personal disclosures which occur in this course, this must be done first with the course professor. Any "breach" of confidentiality will be investigated as a possible violation of Child and Youth Worker professional ethics, and as a possible violation of Sault College's Student Rights and Responsibilities.

Students are expected to be familiar with the Child and Youth Worker Code of Ethics, and/or with the Code of Ethics relevant to their profession if it is not C.Y.W. As well, students are expected to be familiar with Sault College's Student Rights and Responsibilities (contained in the Student Handbook).

COLLEGE GRADING POLICY
