COURSE DESCRIPTION: GENERAL GOALS AND METHODOLOGY

This course enables the student to design and deliver speeches of several kinds, and for several purposes and audiences. The carefully designed exercises help build confidence in beginning speakers through knowledge, technique, and practice.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: SPECIFIC LEARNING BEHAVIORS

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to do the following:

1. Name types of speeches, state the type most appropriate to a given situation and write out the basic format for a speech.
2. Step up to speak with a stride and bearing that conveys enthusiasm and confidence, and maintain rapport with the audience through effective eye contact, posture and delivery.
3. Present an effective demonstration speech.
4. Analyze a speaking situation in terms of audience and purpose, and select appropriate topics and strategies for given speaking situations.
5. Present a five-minute speech in response to a specific purpose and designed for an audience other than the class.
6. Prepare a speech outline which effectively uses appropriate data (as opposed to unsupported generalizations and other propaganda techniques).
7. Deliver an extemporaneous speech in an appropriate tone, and with confidence enthusiasm and sincerity.
8. Use one of several patterns of organizing the discussion part of a speech.
9. Use parallel wording and sentence structure as well as smooth transitions to enhance the organization of a speech.
10. Design and use effective introductions for speeches.
11. Write a critical analysis of a speech.
12. Present an effective ten-minute speech that persuades the audience to accept the validity of the speaker's view of some national issue.
13. Use humour appropriately.
14. Design and deliver an effective speech of fifteen to twenty minutes.

as a demonstration of acquired skills.

16. Evaluate the speaking skills of their peers and themselves
METHODOLOGY

A wide variety of learning techniques will provide theoretical knowledge. These will include videos, classroom presentations and discussion, lectures, guest speakers, directed readings, games and programmed materials. The students will then apply this theory by delivering speeches to the class and/or other audiences, and will evaluate the performance of their peers.
