HEALTH & HEALING III COURSE NAME

I. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Using a collaborative group process approach as well as experiencing other teaching/learning methods, the student will participate in learning activities that focus on providing scientific and research based nursing care for individuals and families experiencing common health problems. The student will also address the dimensions of health care involved in caring for individuals within a multicultural society.

II. LEARNING OUTCOMES:

In this course, many of the learning activities are designed to foster collaborative learning in small groups. In order for the learner to develop their ability or enhance their already acquired skills to critically think, reflect and integrate new information, the learner must engage in active dialogue with peers and the teacher. It is, therefore, to the learner's benefit that they attend consistently and participate actively in class.

Upon successful completion of this course, the student will demonstrate the ability to:

- 1. analyze the legal, ethical and cultural issues that may occur when caring for adults and children.
- 2. analyze recent social, economic, and family nursing care trends that affect individuals.
- 3. collaborate with other students in developing approaches to care for adults and children experiencing common health challenges related to acute/chronic illness, surgical experiences and rehabilitation.
- 4. describe the pathophysiology underlying alterations in health and healing.
- 5. examine the role of the nurse when caring for adults and children.
- 6. explore caring approaches to facilitate health promotion.
- 7. participate in a variety of teaching-learning interactions between nurses, adults and children and their families using effective interpersonal skills.
- 8. apply analytical thinking skills to work through the learning activities.
