Course Description:

This course is a continuation of PFP 302, Criminal Code. In this course students will analyze specific elements of selected criminal code offenses. These include, offences related to weapons and firearms, to the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, and to hate and bias crime. Students will research case law and assess its impact on the police process. They will use case law to argue or defend decisions and to assist in proving elements of offences. Provisions of other Federal Statutes and their relationship with the Criminal Code will also be examined.
