I. PHILOSOPHY/GOALS:

The purpose of this course is to promote the student's critical thinking skills in applying the nursing process in the care of clients who require intervention to regain adaptation. This involves the study of physiological and psychosocial stimuli which tend to disrupt the integrity of the individual. Content is organized around examples of selected nursing diagnoses which illustrate nursing assessment and interventions required to assist clients to adapt in common health problem situations.

II- STUDENT PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES:

1. Demonstrate the use of the nursing process for selected clients who require intervention to regain adaptation.
2. Use adaptation theory as a conceptual basis for nursing practice in assisting clients who require intervention to regain adaptation.
3. Relate in a therapeutic manner with all ages in one on one relationships and relate effectively to groups of persons and clients, the nursing team and other health team members.
4. Demonstrate behaviours which reflect the inherent worth and dignity of the individual and of groups.
5. Examine legal and ethical implicaiton of own nursing practice
6. Examine the structure and function of the health team.
7. Seek opportunities for own personal and professional development.
